One of the main challenges addressed in this Member Meetup was the inclusivity and act onability of various CSR Programs. For example, some skills-based programs or volunteering can be meaningful in act on but can prevent some employees from part cipat ng. More specifically, skills-based volunteering and programs that expect certain skills or qualifications can prevent some employees at a firm from joining. As a result, firm CSR programs and initiatives should focus on inclusivity for employees of all levels and capabilities.
